“ Me on Facebook is like a Big Foot sighting but I wanted to share my thoughts with my awesome Cajun family so I figured out what my damn password was... Hard to explain how amazing it was to grow up in my generation of 1st cousins where we were all raised in one way or another by the 3 Wyble sisters. Jackie was my mom who I still miss so much, Aunt Dee was and still is my 2nd mom, and then there was Aunt Evelyn who I can't recall a time she ever had to get on my ass; but then again, we didn't live in the same house! □ There was a time I was the baby of that 1st cousin generation and I have never forgot how she looked out for me. I can still see the ham on the table at her house for Thanksgiving with the pineapple slices on it. I still remember her evil little cat. But what I will always remember most are the visits we had throughout 2017 as I was coming home to spend time with my mom. The last day Tracy and I were there in December of 2017 and we were heading to the airport, we stopped at her house and I left mom's urn with her to look after. I hoped it would bring her comfort. She said to me "now that your mom is gone, don't forget us and please come back to visit". I promised here I would but yet I wondered if I still might be saying goodbye for the last time. It was incredibly hard to get back in the car and leave. Last December I was really feeling drawn back to Louisiana and I asked Tracy what she thought about making that our vacation for this year. I barely got the words out of my mouth and she said absolutely. I feel so blessed to have been able to have that one last weekend in June to be in her presence. We had some emotional private conversations and I knew they would be our last. I do take comfort in the hopes that the Wyble clan continues its family reunion in a much better place now. It certainly gives me something to look forward to when my own time here draws to an end. My heart goes out to Debbie, Mike, and Donna as well as all of Aunt Evelyn's grand kids. You all had the sweetest mom and grandmother you could ask for. I know all the rest of my Wyble generation would agree.

“ She was truly a wonderful lady. Her love for children was amazing. If it would not have been for her taking care of my children I would not have been able to work and know they were taken care of with love (especially Frankie) he was a hand full but she had no trouble with him.

My sympathy goes to the family, I know she will be truly missed.
