“ Paul was a lovely man. I visited with hm often outside my classroom door. He loved teaching our ECA students and was forever singing their praises. He was such a positive and enthusiastic person, and I'm sad that our students will miss out on having such a fun and knowledgeable teacher. I will miss our chats.

“ I was so saddened to hear of Paul's passing. Not that long ago, he & Ruth & I were together & he had us laughing the entire time, just as he did back in high school. So, of course I'll always remember his sense of humor & quick wit. However, my favorite memory of Paul was when he first met my newborn daughter in 1979. I told him her name & he asked to hold her. He then softly sang a song to her - the song that inspired her name. Somehow he just knew. So...rest in peace, my friend.

DEllyn Miller - January 15 at 04:09 PM

“ Without question, Paul was one of my favorite colleagues at SLCC and a great friend. There is so much I could say. So many great memories. He was one of the most talented, thoughtful, kindest, funniest, and smartest people I had ever met. He was the BEST storyteller, the picture of refinement, and always a gentleman. Those of us who had the privilege to know him, were truly lucky to experience all that he was. I remember him warmly welcoming my 2-year old son when I brought him on-campus one day. Paul immediately demanded that we go up to his office so he could give my son a gift. It ended up being his first musical instrument, a wooden frog hand percussion instrument. Paul always told me how brilliant I was and always made sure to lift others up whenever he got the chance, which was everyday. He would make you feel so seen and heard when you talked to him. No one visited me more than Paul and I will sorely miss our daily talks. Every encounter was a lesson about life and humanity. I will hold my final memory of you, on what would be both of our last day at SLCC, close to my heart. You gave me a hand written card with Robert Frost's Nothing Gold Can Stay. I now realize how true that is. Thank you, Paul, for sharing yourself so selflessly with all of us. I will you so very much my friend.

Shantrell Rogers Johnson - January 15 at 08:17 AM

“ I was shocked to hear of Mr. Paul's passing, and my heart goes out for his family. I just recently graduated from SLCC and will say he was one of my top favorite instructors there. Any time anyone asked for an instructor recommendation, his was the name I gave. I took his Acadian Music and Culture class my first semester at SLCC, and his personality, stories, and zest for life was infectious. Once he learned who you were, you were guaranteed a greeting if he saw you around campus or town! I was lucky enough to have taken another of his classes this past fall, History of Rock, before I graduated in December. I love every moment of it. The world has lost a truly gifted gentleman, and a terrific teacher.

“ My heart split when I heard the news. Mr. Paul was a kind influence that made the hard times easier. He talked me up to everyone and was extremely supportive of my endeavors to succeed in academia. When I achieved some success, Mr. Paul was driving behind Devalcourt, stopped his car in the middle of the road and shouted that there was no one more deserving than me. He was the sort of person who encouraged and helped when he could. More people should be like him.

“ I first met Paul when he served on my hiring committee when I applied at SLCC. I did not know it then, but he would become a good friend, mentor, and colleague. When I finally moved my office to the 3rd floor of the Devalcourt building, we spoke every day. I will never forget our last day in the office together. He sat in my office and we talked about college football and my playing rugby. He shared his story of trying rugby while he was at Cincinnati, and how he learned that it was not a sport for him. His last words to me were how lucky SLCC was that I came here to teach. I don't know how true that is, but coming from Paul, it was an honor. He will be missed by all that knew him but the 3rd won't be the same! Rest easy my friend.

“ I worked for a short time with the Office of Student Engagement at SLCC and met Paul at the New Iberia campus during the Fall 2018 semester. He had such a wonderful voice, always full of cheer with quite a bit of mischief. I had no idea who he was but I wanted to meet him... a difficult task for an introvert like myself. I heard him outside of my office one afternoon attempting to convince our security guard to help him grade papers and I remember him asking if she would prefer one class or the other... the other being his Acadian music and culture class. I stepped out of my office and asked him if he taught Acadian music and he responded that he did and I asked him if he knew who Irene Therese Whitfield Holmes was. His already huge smile got bigger and his eyes sparkled and he animatedly started extolling the virtues of Mrs. Holmes. When he finally took a breath, I introduced myself as Mrs. Holmes' great-granddaughter. Without a pause or even asking if I had ever met her in person (I had, of course, I was 24 when she passed), he insisted that I needed to come to his class and do a presentation. Me and my big mouth. I will be forever grateful for that demand for so many reasons. Not only did I get an excuse to speak with and get to know the wonderfully delightful Paul Sahuc, I also was able to fulfill a requirement my supervisor made for me to do presentations, and I was put in a position of actually learning much more about my great-grandmother than I already knew. His passing is a great loss for all of us who knew him and even more so for those of us who never had the pleasure. He will be missed.

“ When I first started teaching at SLCC in person, one day a kind gentleman looked at me dragging my cart on wheels towards the elevator and said "When does your plane take off?," he had a smile on his face so I knew it was all in good fun. I answered, "We depart to travel the world in French class in about 10 minutes!" Later on I recognized him in the faculty parking lot a couple of days later and I learned he was a Music Instructor and I told him about my years as a Band Mom and how proud I was of my daughter still being in a band at NSU in college. He was very kind and supportive of me and my family and I found out he loved globes (like the earth). I always meant to buy him a little one and bring it to him and now I regret not doing that. However I think where he is now, he can see the whole earth in all its musical glory <3

“ Paul always had an encouraging word. When I first started teaching at SLCC, I met him at a faculty dinner at a local restaurant. On our way out, he said to me, "We're very fortunate to have you."

Those words helped me feel like I belonged here.

I miss you, Paul.

Kayla Patel - January 13 at 11:13 AM

“ Dr. Sahuc impacted me greatly. I met him in a time in my life where I was lost and confused. I recently graduated high school but decided to go to community college before transferring to UL. During my time in his class he gave me the inspiration to audition for the school of music. He believed in my voice, when I couldn't convince myself I was good enough.

He had an infectious laugh you could hear a mile away. He was also a funny guy. A jokester. He was terrible at technology. I remember him asking me to figure out why the PC wasn't turning on in class. To my surprise, it was off. He was a brilliant teacher. A fantastic teacher. And someone who had a huge heart. One of my classmates who was a single mom, didn't have a babysitter and he held her baby the entire class period while she took her test. He understood what going through hard times was like. But most importantly, he understood what being a true teacher and mentor meant.

I could go on and on about my memories of Paul. But I will leave this as my last sentiments. Thank you for giving me the wings to fly.

“ Oh my, what a shock to me and the musical family of Lafayette. When we saw him as Antonio, the gardener in ULL's production of Marriage of Figaro, I knew he was destined for a great career. And he proved that, reading all the accolades on this Wall.

Paul was a genuine human being and one of my favorite friends. And yes, he was Canaille. He was the friend who dropped off vegetables from Fresh Pickens every week. He was the friend who drove me to live at Brookdale. And he kept up with me by phone or visit. We had a planned luncheon date the week after Christmas, but bad weather interfered.

Esther, you raised a sweet and kind son. Jerry is welcoming Paul into heaven right now and the operas are blaring!

“ I am deeply grateful to have known Paul. His spirit was ebullient, and dizzyingly joyful. To my great happiness, he frequently pulled me out of my comfort zone creatively, vocally, and socially to encourage my imagination and explore my curiosity. I can't imagine how many people he encouraged and lifted through his generosity of spirit and command of our shared humanity. For his family and extended network of friends, I wish peace and patience as we celebrate his life, legacy and the love that he encouraged us all to share so freely.

“ I am so saddened to have heard the news that one my of best friends, mentor and colleague passed away. Having known him for almost 30 years it is hard to describe my feelings but I do know that the knowledge and passion he had, he passed on to all of his students. He would give you the shirt off his back if he knew you could use it. He was such a loving, caring and kind person. I am honored to have been able to learn so much from him not only vocally but in all aspects of life. We shared many memories and had many long discussions about almost anything and everything. My deepest condolences to his entire Sahuc family and all who knew him. He will be missed greatly. Rest In Peace my friend.

“ Paul was a true friend and will be greatly missed. I could always count on him to say a kind word and make me laugh. His infectious spirit and personality always lifted me when I needed it most. Paul would come to my class to check on me during difficult times. He didn't have to say anything; it was his presence while standing in my classroom doorway when I would look up, saying, "Hey Paul." He was always positive, which I appreciated. He was an angel that I will miss at SLCC.

“ Paul was my voice teacher from 1993-98 at the University of MN Duluth. He was an incredible teacher who passed on his passion and generosity to every student he had, whether they were music majors or just people who sang in the choir for fun. He made huge, sweeping, lasting changes in the lives of the people he touched. I had never heard an opera before meeting him, and over the 5 years I studied with him he taught me how to sing, study, rehearse and prepare for a life in music. I am shocked and saddened by his sudden passing, and I am sending all my love to his family, friends, and the multitudes of students whose lives he impacted. Peace, Paul.

“ My son Andy and many of his still closest friends were students of Paul's at UMD (University of Minnesota, Duluth) in the mid-90s. Mary and I would chuckle about them in the early years and how Paul was like a mother hen and the students, his chicks. But that points to what kind of relationships Paul formed with students of his and all the opportunities he opened up to them. He encouraged them to go at all musical ops like a bull charging the matador's red cape! In just one example of many, Andy would audition for every award and educational opportunity that Paul pointed to or that Andy himself discovered. He learned that not gaining the 'winners circle' status didn't really matter, but what that experience taught him, did. From UMD productions to Bay View summers, to the College Conservatory of Music at the University of Cincinnati, to Minnesota Opera, it was Paul's guidance and influence that kept Andy's career fervently moving forward. He is being sorely missed!

“ To the Sahuc Family: Paul and I were in the "Annie Get Your Gun" production back in July of 1981 at U(S)L. He was the lead, and I was Annie's youngest sibling. Paul was funnier than he knew, because he was shy ... but what a voice!! He was like a brother to me, as we shared the joy of being on stage. He used to pop over to our family home during and after those times, and he got a kick out of bantering with my father (Mervine Jankower). I suspect they're bantering in heaven. Nothing can prepare us for something like this. RIP, sweet Paul. You impacted so many lives, and you will be sorely missed. Love and prayers going out to the family, Laurie Jankower James
